

Nicole Njoku | corporate client Liaison officer Chinese and Asian clients [Mandarin Speaker

Nicole Njoku is a young professional with extensive international experience. She recently worked in New York with a law firm that specialises in U.K. and US immigration. Her experience also extends to Lagos, Nigeria where she worked on environmental projects for Lagos State Government and Mobil Oil, Nigeria. She has worked as a business consultant for SMEs in Cambodia. In addition, she has been studying Mandarin since 2017 and is currently at an intermediary level. Miss Njoku is always keen on broadening her experience, especially at an international level. As a partnership and liaison officer, Nicole is required to maintain and develop partnerships with Chinese Investors and Chinese Institution's through communication and relationship building, Nicole is responsibility is to establish and nurture a working relationship between two separate organizations for their mutual benefit. Liaison officers can have numerous roles within this context. Oftentimes, liaison officers act as mediators between two groups. tasked with facilitating communication between Africa bridge capital management city of London and identified Global Chinese Banks, Chinese private equity firms & Chinese corporates focused on Africa . Nicole is tasked with promoting the acknowledgment of our firm to a wide array of Global Chinese investors